About This Production

Proscenium presents this captivating play about Russian spies in semi-detached Ruislip, where conversations take place behind net curtains and no-one knows who's telling the truth.

Bob and Barbara Jackson, and their daughter Julie, are friendly with their neighbours, the Krogers. All is well until a Scotland Yard detective asks to use the Jackson's house as an observation post to try and unearth a couple of Soviet spies operating in the area. Hugh Whitmore's intriguing drama, based on the real life Portland Spy Ring case of the early 1960s, asks searching questions about trust and betrayal.
